

10 February 2019

Happy Sunday World,

My voice is completely gone so I'm writing my vlog diary to you . Week 5 was amazing i must say. Web development is a lot of fun and this is the time i can actually use my creativity. I'm super excited about project month because we can add our own touches. I am not sure what it could be but i am hoping one day i can create a web page for my Manga and Manhwa book club.

Monday i missed school because I was very sick and I didnt want to be selfish and get everyone else sick. Its a small classroom and if one person is sick everyone can get sick. Lucky i have awesome classmates and awesome teachers. I was able to be in facetime during class. I felt really special and it truly helped with not missing important information.

Tuesday I had dinner with two long time friends. They are an inspiration for me. One of my best friends, Tran Nguyen, just graduated Nursing school. It was a tough journey and i witnessed her through it all. It makes me want to work harder and be the best i can be. My other best friend lost her first baby. She is the strongest woman i have ever met. She felt her baby's heartbeat right before she went into labor, and because of birthing issues the baby didn't make it, She stood by ethans side for as long as she could day and night, to save him. I forever will admire her and look up to her. With going to school full time a dinner was much needed.

Wednesday we were treated out to lunch thanks to Code Crew. I had a hot date wink wink. Mrs Erin took us to Farm Burger with the class and it was a bonding moment. We were asked some very useful and comforting questions such as how is coding school , is it what we expected, do we enjoy it and it truly was an eye opener for me to see how much they care about our growth. My burger was super yummy, it had a sunny side up eggs, caramelized onion and well seasoned beef, probably the best burger i've ever had.

Thursday was a treat. Start-co has a networking event at the Hu Hotel downtown Memphis. It waS on a beautiful rooftop. I love going to start-Co events. They really built who i am and have helped me with discovering my entrepreneur side . WHen cierra, betty and i entered we were greeted with tickets to get free drinks and warm welcomes. Code Crew was killing it with the Networking. We met and mingled with a lot of smart, unique powerful minorities and it was an eye opener for me. Code Crew has really opened my opportunities and for the first time i had so much to talk about. I was proud to talk to everyone about my new skills, and my journey. The feeling o self improvement is high like no other and Code School gave me that opportunity. Meca and the Alpha class was there and they got to really create a bond with all of us. It truly was a great night.

Friday was a very much needed review day. For some reason Kenn had a lot of jokes. It was pretty funny hearing them. Kevin's car got messed up but kenn came to the rescue. What an awesome set of teachers. I find myself enjoying the learning process with these two and truly feel the support. Kenn wit his early morning study sessions has given me the extra help and confidence that i needed. I'm excited for what week six has to bring.

Melaati Jayah